Dress Code

Textile is one of the oldest and traditional industries in Pakistan operating in since independence contributing a huge part in economy and industrial structure. In textile where competition is getting stiffer setting high requirement for enterprise in term of cost, quality, agility services and innovation. In this condition where competition is so tough entrepreneurs are looking to decrease operating cost / fixed cost. In this ERA of technology where efficient information system are becoming increasingly important industry cannot be survives with tide of information the development of enterprise resource planning (ERP) might be the strategic choice enhance core competencies in textile sector. Enter price Resource planning (ERP) systems are highly integrated enterprise-wide Information system that automate core business process. Most of the Medium and small size textile mills in Pakistan are using software but the main problem is that is lacks integration amongst the different module which makes the information irrelevant. The cost of internationally recognized software is beyond the reach for the entrepreneurs. Dress code seems to be the answer for those small and medium size textile mills meticulously designed by highly experienced putting over three years for textile industry.
